In the shadows cast by many of the world's greatest artists, one often finds the figure of The Muse: spouse or lover, protector or demon, patron or artist themselves - but always a main source of inspiration. Georgia O'Keeffe with Alfred Stieglitz; Gala with Paul Eluard and then with Salvador Dali; Nico with Andy Warhol; Frida Kahlo with Diego Rivera; Jean Marais with Jean Cocteau; Gena Rowlands with John Cassavetes: every art, from painting to writing to filmmaking to music, has a rich history of these fateful partnerships. What does the artist see in his muse? Why is artistic inspiration so often incarnated by the female form? This volume, illustrated with archival photography, sketches, handwritten letters, paintings and highly personal ephemera, examines some 24 couples whose pairings have left an indelible mark on 20th-century art. In each case, the authors find, their passion and intimacy proved to be the germ of creation.

Tom Carter:

As a college student exactly feel bored in order to reading. If their teacher questioned them to go to the library or make summary for some reserve, they are complained. Just very little students that has reading's heart and soul or real their passion. They just do what the educator want, like asked to go to the library. They go to generally there but nothing reading very seriously. Any students feel that reading is not important, boring and can't see colorful pictures on there. Yeah, it is to be complicated. Book is very important to suit your needs. As we know that on this age, many ways to get whatever we want. Likewise word says, many ways to reach Chinese's country. So , this The 20th-Century Muse can make you feel more interested to read.
